A Safe Return to Youth Sports

Lauren M Sauer, MSc

Director of Operations
Johns Hopkins Office of Critical Event Preparedness and Response
Where are we?

- https://coronavirus.jhu.edu/data/cumulative-cases
What Returning to Sports Means

• New mixing – especially in travel events
• Returning to sports before returning to school
• Exposure of higher risk populations
• Obtaining community buy in and support from state and local health departments
Reopening for youth sports WILL mean more cases!
A roadmap forward

• Monitoring state and local health department notices/forecasts regularly
• Protect families and children who are at increased risk
• Promote healthy hygiene practices and reinforce physical distancing strategies
• Intensifying cleaning, disinfection and ventilation procedures