Rebuilding Household Balance Sheets

July 7-10, 2013
Aspen, Colorado
The Aspen Institute Financial Security Summit is an invitation-only gathering of top business leaders, experts, advocates, and media. The goal is to advance the dialogue on the public and private solutions that create more savings and wealth in American households, strengthen middle-class opportunity, and improve the economic future of the country.

Building off of the success of last year’s Summit, the 2013 Financial Security Summit seeks to bring renowned leaders together to reveal compelling consensus around policies that have the power to enhance economic mobility and financial security while directing Americans away from a culture of unaffordable consumption. At a time when the American economy is at a crossroads, the Financial Security Summit aims to underline that achieving a much greater measure of financial security for both households and the country is a goal that financial industry leaders and consumer advocates believe in and can advance.

The Aspen Institute Initiative on Financial Security (Aspen IFS) is a leading policy program dedicated to helping bring about the policies and financial products that enable all Americans to save, invest, and own.

The Aspen Institute is an educational and policy studies organization based in Washington, DC. Its mission is to foster leadership based on enduring values and to provide a nonpartisan venue for dealing with critical issues. The Institute has campuses in Aspen, Colorado, and on the Wye River on Maryland’s Eastern Shore. It also maintains offices in New York City and has an international network of partners.
July 7, 2013

Dear Financial Security Summit Participant,

Welcome to Aspen! It is a pleasure to have you join us at our second Aspen Institute Financial Security Summit. I am thrilled to have brought together a revered group of leaders from all parts of the country, various fields, and different sides of the aisle. Get settled in your rooms, acclimate to the altitude, and prepare for many stimulating conversations with an exceptional group.

I founded Aspen’s Initiative on Financial Security (Aspen IFS) ten years ago having seen from my work at the Ford Foundation the success of innovative non-profit programs that helped thousands of lower-income Americans reach their goals of homeownership, business ownership, educational attainment, and owning a financial nest egg. The goal of Aspen IFS has been to improve the way the savings system works for millions of Americans by designing and promoting smart policies and smart products that help Americans gain or retain a firm foothold in the middle-class.

Throughout its history, Aspen IFS has balanced three roles – first as an expert, researcher, and architect of smart solutions for improving financial security; second as an advocate and careful defender of those solutions; and third as a high-level convener able to shed new light on the issues and solutions to important audiences who influence U.S. policy. Aspen IFS devoted much of the early years of our work to craft our savings policy recommendations, Savings for Life, and has most recently focused on advancing the tax and regulatory changes needed to bring more Americans into the savings system and to make savings more robust.

We are fortunate to do our work at the Aspen Institute with its 60 year tradition of cross-sector dialogue with prominent leaders and innovators on the world’s thorniest challenges. Thus we find ourselves here in Colorado with you today using the Institute’s precious tradition of dialogue in the beautiful Aspen home base for which we are named. I hope you will dive into our Summit discussions, enjoy a few other Aspen conversations, and have time to recharge and find fresh motivation for the work and passions that make all our lives meaningful.

With warm regards,

Phil in International Relations from Magdalen College, Oxford University, as a Rhodes Scholar, and his B.A., summa cum laude, with Honors in History, from Yale University.

Carolyn S. Berkowitz, Managing Vice President, Community Affairs, Capital One Financial Corporation

Carolyn Berkowitz is responsible for Capital One’s award-winning national community investment strategy. As President of the Capital One Foundation, she also leads initiatives that foster the link between quality education and community economic development outcomes. Under Ms. Berkowitz’s leadership, both Capital One and the Capital One Foundation invest in creating economic opportunity in communities where the company operates, including support for education, jobs, and financial literacy through grants, volunteering and signature programs. In 2012, she assumed leadership for Capital One’s Market President Network, partnering with local executives to represent the company’s civic interests in markets throughout the footprint. Ms. Berkowitz champions corporate-community engagement that goes beyond “checkbook philanthropy” and as such, led the development of cutting-edge programs that direct the expertise of Capital One’s talented associates to address pressing community needs. Ms. Berkowitz serves as Chair of the Board of the Washington Area Women’s Foundation. In 2009, Ms. Berkowitz was named one of Washington Business Journal’s Women Who Mean Business. This award recognizes the region’s most influential women who have made a difference in their communities, blazed a trail for others and impacted business in the Greater Washington area. Prior to joining Capital One, Ms. Berkowitz served as Senior Vice President for Community Mobilization for the America’s Promise Alliance, and as Vice President of the Points of Light Institute.
Yvette S. Butler, Managing Vice President, Capital One Financial Advisors

Ms. Butler leads every aspect of the COFA organization, setting the strategy for the business, driving sales and overseeing the Well Managed agenda. A seasoned executive with more than ten years’ experience in Financial Services, Yvette joined Capital One Bank after leading the direct Business at Wells Fargo Advisors (WFA) including WFA Solutions and WellsTrade. WFA Solutions helps mass affluent investors take control of their financial future by assisting them in making informed decisions, providing financial solutions and helping them stay on track. WellsTrade is the online trading business that allows customers of all wealth levels to trade all or a portion of their portfolio on their own. She joined Wells Fargo Advisors in 2007 (previously Wachovia Securities) as the Head of Affluent Client Experience. In this role, Yvette was responsible for developing innovative strategies to drive affluent client loyalty and improve Financial Advisor productivity. Prior to joining Wells Fargo Advisors, she served as the Head of Investor Marketing for E*TRADE where she was responsible for extending the E*TRADE brand from an active trader niche to the broader retail investor market. In addition, she held two leadership positions at Merrill Lynch – one as the Director, Retirement Group where she executed asset retention strategies for 401(k) rollovers and the other as Director, Customer Development where she created a new business channel that targeted the next generation investor (now known as MerrillEdge). She has also held leadership positions in Strategy, Advice/Planning, Marketing and Sales at McKinsey & Co. and Charles Schwab. Ms. Butler holds her FINRA Series 7, 9, 10, 66, and 24 licenses and is a Certified Financial Planner. Yvette earned her BS in Finance & Management Information Systems from University of Virginia and her MBA from the Stanford Graduate School of Business.

In his role, Davis leads the team responsible for Prudential's in-plan and investment-only stable value product management and development. With over $110 billion in asset value, Prudential is a recognized leader in the stable value marketplace. Prior to joining Prudential, Davis served as Deputy Assistant Secretary for the Employee Benefits Security Administration in the U.S. Department of Labor. There he assisted the Assistant Secretary in directing the policy, regulatory, enforcement and public assistance functions of the office responsible for administering the Employee Retirement Income Security Act and related laws. Prior to his role in government, Davis worked for 17 years at J.P. Morgan, holding various positions in the investment bank and in J. P. Morgan Asset Management where he ultimately served as managing director and head of the west region institutional client group. Davis holds a Bachelor of Business Administration degree in Finance from the University of Texas at Austin and a Master's degree in Public Policy from the Kennedy School of Government at Harvard University. He has received a number of civic and professional awards.

Senator Kevin de León
California's 22nd District

State Senator Kevin de León represents California’s 22nd District which includes the Cities of Los Angeles, Alhambra, Maywood, San Marino, South Pasadena, Vernon and parts of unincorporated Los Angeles County. In 2013, De León became the first Latino to chair the powerful Senate Appropriations Chair. He was first elected to the State Legislature in 2006 as an Assembly member for Los Angeles and chaired the Assembly Appropriations Committee making him the first Latino Chair of that fiscal committee in the past one hundred years. With his Senate Bill 1234, the California Secure Choice Retirement Savings Trust Act of 2012, he set up the framework for the 6.3 million Californians, mostly lower and middle-income workers who don’t have a retirement plan at work, to set up a portable and reliable plan that will serve as a modest supplement to Social Security. The measure is being watched closely throughout the country as a potential model for worker retirement plans and as a supplement to Social Security. De León is also an environmental advocate who champions efforts to increase efficiency and greener energy. He firmly believes that clean air, clean water and access to open space should not be determined by the zip code someone resides in but rather that is a right for all people. He authored legislation inserted into an omnibus measure that creates hundreds of millions of dollars for alternative fuel research and development. He has been recognized as Legislator of the Year by the Planning and Conservation League, Green California, Friends of the River and the Coalition for Clean Air. De León also successfully authored a law establishing a needs-based competitive grants program for the distribution of $400 million in Proposition 84 funds for local park assistance and development. That measure allocated the single largest investment in local park space creation in the nation's history. Prior to being elected to the Legislature, Senator De León worked as a community organizer, English as a Second Language and U.S. Citizenship teacher, and was a staff advocate for public schools during his five years at the California Teachers Association. He also served as a Senior Associate for the National Education Association (NEA) in Washington, D.C., where he advocated for more resources for schools in low-income neighborhoods. Senator De León grew up in the San Diego barrio of Logan Heights. He was the first in his family to graduate from high school. He attended UC Santa Barbara and graduated from Pitzer College at the Claremont Colleges with Honors. He is a Rodel Fellow at the Aspen Institute and a Guest Lecturer at the University of Southern California. He has one daughter.
Karen Elinski, Senior Vice President, General Counsel & Head of Government Relations, TIAA-CREF, has over twenty years combined experience working directly for and with the public sector on both the federal and state levels. Karen is responsible for building and managing the corporate government relations function; experienced working in both the federal/state public and private sectors; actively involved in governmental organizations and Board member of several trade associations throughout the U.S with particular expertise in public higher education, pension reform, financial services, health care and insurance regulatory issues, as well as a strong personal interest in politics and international affairs. She also serves TIAA-CREF’s National Chair of its Women’s Group. Karen also represents the company serving on the bipartisan Committee for Economic Development’s Subcommittee on Women’s Empowerment. Prior to joining TIAA-CREF, Karen worked as Vice President, Government Affairs for Prudential Insurance Company and developed an extensive expertise in insurance, health care and financial services matters. Karen worked for an industry trade association, the American Association of Health Plans, in Washington, D.C. on the issue of national health care reform during the Clinton Administration’s efforts to restructure the current system. Karen’s legal career commenced in the private sector while working as an associate at the global law firm White & Case. Karen also served as an analyst for the New York State Assembly earlier in her career.

Philip English, Co-chairman, Government Relations Practice
Arent Fox LLP

Former U.S. Congressman Phil English is a senior government relations advisor at Arent Fox and serves as co-chair, along with former Sen. Byron Dorgan, of the firm’s government relations practice. While in Congress, he developed an interest and rich experience in trade, health care, and tax and energy policy. Phil currently assists clients in these areas, plus state and municipal government operations. He is also a member of the firm's Colombia working group. Phil served seven terms in the U.S. House of Representatives as a member of the Ways and Means Committee, the last as Ranking Member on the Subcommittee on Select Revenue Measures. He also served on the Joint Economic Committee, as Co-Chair of the Congressional Economic Leadership Institute, and as a member on the President’s Export Council. While in Congress, he was a strong advocate of fundamental tax reform, as well as expanded savings instruments (Auto IRA) and reforms for federal unemployment insurance and trade adjustment assistance (TAA). While on the Ways and Means Committee, English played an active role in shaping landmark legislation in welfare reform and a Medicare prescription drug benefit. English was elected Controller of the City of Erie, and was appointed Minority Executive Director of the Finance Committee and Research Director of the Labor and Industry Committee in the Senate of Pennsylvania. He is currently a member of the United States National Commission on UNESCO. He holds a BA (Political Science) from the University of Pennsylvania.

JOSHUA GOTBAUM, DIRECTOR
U.S. PENSION BENEFIT GUARANTY CORPORATION

Josh Gotbaum is the Director of the U.S. Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation, a federal agency that insures private sector pensions covering more than 40 million people. PBGC currently pays benefits or is responsible for the pensions of 1.5 million. As of September 2010, the agency had assets of almost $80 billion and obligations of $102 billion. Director Gotbaum was appointed by the President in July 2010 and unanimously confirmed by the US Senate in September 2010. Josh has, for over three decades, helped manage, advise, and restructure public, private, and nonprofit institutions. From 2003-2005, he led and managed the successful reorganization of Hawaiian Airlines as its Chapter 11 trustee. When it emerged from Chapter 11, Hawaiian’s creditors were repaid in full, most of its employees received raises, and Hawaiian was recognized as one of the best airlines in America. In 2001-2002, he was the first CEO of The September 11th Fund, a charity with over $500 million in assets whose innovative grants helped more than 100,000 people and businesses affected by the attacks. For more than a decade, Josh was an investment banker with Lazard in New York and London. He advised businesses, unions and governments on a diverse range of mergers, acquisitions and restructurings, in transportation, steel, and other industries. Immediately prior to joining PBGC, he was a partner in Blue Wolf Capital, a private equity firm, and also helped other investment firms acquire, restructure, and manage businesses.
Josh also has extensive experience in government. During the Clinton administration, he was confirmed by the Senate three times, and served as Executive Associate Director and Controller in the Office of Management and Budget; Assistant Secretary of Treasury for Economic Policy; and Assistant Secretary of Defense. During the administration of President Carter, he served on the White House staff and in the Department of Energy. Josh holds degrees from Stanford, Harvard Law School, and from Harvard’s Kennedy School of Government.

Kilolo Kijakazi, Program Officer, Financial Assets & Economic Security
Ford Foundation

Kilolo Kijakazi is a program officer in the Financial Assets Unit of the Economic Opportunity and Assets Program at The Ford Foundation. Her line of work is Building Economic Security Over a Lifetime, which focuses on promoting public support for the creation of universal savings accounts from birth through retirement, and Social Security reform that improves benefits for low-wage workers. This approach incorporates the expertise of people of color into all aspects of the work, including research, policy, and practice. Before coming to Ford, Kilolo was a senior policy analyst for the Center on Budget and Policy Priorities where she specialized in Social Security. While there she wrote and presented research and policy papers, provided testimony before Congress, and served as a panelist at the White House Conference on Social Security under the Clinton Administration. Some of her papers were published by the National Academy of Social Insurance and the Gerontological Society of America. Prior to that, she worked as a program analyst for the US Department of Agriculture, Food and Nutrition Service. In this position she designed and monitored evaluations of the Food Stamp Program and demonstrations of non-custodial parents programs. She also worked at the National Urban League Washington Operations office as a policy analyst and addressed issues such as welfare reform, employment, and education. Kilolo received a doctorate in public policy from the George Washington University and her dissertation was published in 1997 as a book titled African-American Economic Development and Small Business Ownership. She also holds an MSW with a specialty in community development from Howard University and a BA in psychology from Binghamton University.
EUGENE LUDWIG, FOUNDER & CEO
PROMONTORY FINANCIAL GROUP

Gene, the Founder and Chief Executive Officer of Promontory Financial Group, is a trusted adviser to many of the world’s leading financial companies. Before founding Promontory, Gene served under President Clinton as U.S. Comptroller of the Currency, the head of the federal agency responsible for supervising the preponderance of U.S. banking assets. He went on to become Vice Chairman and Senior Control Officer of Bankers Trust/Deutsche Bank. In addition to his role at Promontory Financial Group, Gene is Chairman and Co-Founder of Promontory Interfinancial Network and Managing Principal of CapGen Financial, a private equity firm. Gene is a business leader and expert on banking regulation, risk management, and fiscal policy who founded Promontory in 2001. As a former federal regulator and banker, Gene is thoroughly attuned to the issues involved in revamping the regulatory framework to withstand future shocks. Before founding Promontory, Gene was Vice Chairman and Senior Control Officer of Bankers Trust New York Corp. He was instrumental in steering the firm through its landmark merger with Deutsche Bank. As U.S. Comptroller of the Currency from 1993 to 1998, Gene served as the Clinton Administration’s point person on the policy response to the credit crunch of the early 1990s. Under his purview, lending to low and moderate income Americans increased tenfold, as did national bank investments in community development corporations. He brought 27 fair-lending cases, resulting in tens of millions of dollars in fines against violators. While he was Comptroller, Gene served as Chairman of the Federal Financial Institutions Examination Council (FFIEC), a member of the Basel Committee on International Bank Supervision, a Director of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC), and Chairman of the Neighborhood Reinvestment Corporation. Before becoming Comptroller, Gene was a partner in the law firm of Covington & Burling, specializing in banking law. He has written numerous articles on banking and finance for scholarly journals and publications and has been a guest lecturer at Yale and Harvard law schools and Georgetown University’s International Law Institute. He has also lectured at the Yale Business School and Harvard’s Kennedy School of Government. Gene was born in Brooklyn, New York, and raised in York, Pennsylvania. He graduated magna cum laude from Haverford College and received a scholarship to Oxford University, where he earned a M.A. as a Keasbey Fellow. He holds a J.D. from Yale University, where he was editor of the Yale Law Journal and chairman of Yale Legislative Services.

Christine Marcks, President
Prudential Retirement

Christine C. Marcks is the president of Prudential Retirement, an industry leading provider of full-service retirement plans; stable value, retirement income and capital market solutions; and pension risk-transfer strategies. Throughout her career, Marcks has played a key role in the evolution of the financial services industry, first as an International Economist with the U.S. Treasury Department in Washington, D.C. and later as a corporate executive in increasingly responsible positions within the retirement-services industry. Her expertise spans the institutional and individual retirement businesses, and her knowledge and experience have led to the successful launch of innovative product-and-service solutions, most notably Prudential IncomeFlex, a market-leading guaranteed retirement-income offering for defined contribution plans. As president of Prudential Retirement, Marcks also brings passion to the business, committing her organization to creating retirement security for American workers. To that end, she has implemented an aggressive strategy to “lead the transformation of U.S. retirement,” recognizing that in these challenging economic times, new products, services and tools are needed to improve the retirement readiness of individuals in employer-sponsored plans. Beyond her business accomplishments, Marcks has also become an involved and influential advocate for legislation that will ultimately help Americans achieve their retirement goals. She serves on the Board of Directors for the Connecticut Business & Industry Association and on the Board of the Employee Benefit Research Institute in Washington, DC. Additionally, Marcks is committed to community involvement and improvement, promoting and advancing educational programs and the arts by serving on the Boards of the YMCA of the USA, the Greater Hartford YMCA, the Hartford Youth Scholars Foundation, and The Bushnell Center for the Performing Arts. Marcks also serves on the Board of Trustees of Assumption College, where she graduated with a B.A. degree in foreign affairs. She earned her M.A. in economics from Georgetown University.

She works closely with the board and National Policy Council on a broad agenda to develop AARP policy priorities and make life better for older Americans. An economist, she is a strategic thinker whose career has been dedicated to solving problems affecting economic and health security, and other issues related to population aging. As staff director for the U.S. Senate Special Committee on Aging, she worked to increase retirement security, preserve a strong system of Social Security, lower the cost of health care, protect vulnerable seniors, safeguard consumers, make the pharmaceutical industry more transparent and improve our nation’s nursing homes. She has sought bipartisan, fact-based solutions to these and other challenges facing older Americans. She previously worked for the Congressional Research Service as a specialist in the economics of aging. In this capacity, she provided members of Congress and their staff with research and advice, and authored analytical reports describing the economic impacts of current policies affecting older Americans, as well as the distributional and intergenerational effects of legislative proposals. From 2001 to 2003, she served as a Brookings LEGIS Fellow to the Senate Health, Education, Labor and Pensions Committee, working as a health policy adviser to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy. Earlier in her career, she conducted research on savings and retirement for the Social Security Administration, helping to establish the Retirement Research Consortium and serving as the founding editor of the Perspectives section of the Social Security Bulletin. She holds a master’s and doctorate in economics from Syracuse University and bachelor’s in economics, mathematics and Italian from Gonzaga University.
Jonathan Witter, President, Retail & Direct Banking
Capital One

Jon Witter is president of Retail and Direct Banking at Capital One Bank. In this role, Jon provides strategic direction and leadership for the Retail and Direct Banking organization. He is responsible for more than 14,000 Retail and Direct Banking associates, nearly 1,000 branch and office locations, and 2,200 ATMs in California, Connecticut, Delaware, Louisiana, Maryland, Minnesota, New Jersey, New York, Texas, Virginia, Washington and Washington, D.C. He reports to Rich Fairbank, Capital One’s chairman and CEO. He also serves as the company’s Mid-Atlantic regional president. Jon is a seasoned financial services executive with more than 20 years of experience building profitable products, channels and businesses in the consumer and wholesale financial service sectors. His deep management consulting background comes from serving two years at Deloitte & Touche Consulting Group and later six years as an associate principal at McKinsey & Company, where he specialized in banks, financial services and insurance clients. During this time, Jon focused on a diverse base of large, medium and small banks, insurance companies and other financial services institutions across a wide variety of disciplines. From McKinsey & Company, Jon served as executive vice president and head of general bank distribution at Wachovia. In this capacity, he led Wachovia’s non-branch distribution channels (phone, ATM, Internet). In addition, Jon led the deposit and retail credit product teams that managed product features, functionality, services and profitability. He also led the company’s branch and network management function that played a major role in new market entries in Texas and California. Following Wachovia, Jon served as managing director and president of Morgan Stanley Private Bank NA and Chief Operating Officer of Morgan Stanley’s Retail Banking Group. In this role, Jon was accountable for the strategic direction and overall success of the business, including day-to-day leadership over product management, mortgage, information technology, operations and CRA. Jon received a M.B.A. from the Wharton School of Business, where he was recognized as a Palmer Scholar. He received his B.A. magna cum laude from Vanderbilt University in Economics.
Lisa Mensah, Executive Director

Lisa Mensah is an expert in using financial tools to improve the economic security of the working poor. At Aspen IFS, Ms. Mensah leads a team of financial security experts who study the financial products and public policy solutions that help build wealth from birth to retirement for America’s working families. Ms. Mensah began her career in commercial banking at Citibank prior to working 13 years with the Ford Foundation. Serving as Deputy Director of Economic Development for the organization, Ms. Mensah led the Foundation’s work in microfinance and women’s economic development. She became the leading national funder of individual development accounts (IDAs) – innovative savings accounts structured with matching incentives and personal financial training used to finance homeownership, entrepreneurship and education. Under Ms. Mensah’s leadership, IDAs grew from an experiment at a handful of sites to become a tool used by hundreds of community organizations in all 50 states. With a deep interest in solutions to the broad challenges to economic security and financial access, Ms. Mensah is the board chair of the National Academy of Social Insurance, a board member of the Doorways to Dreams (D2D) Fund, in Allston, MA and HOPE Enterprise Corporation, in Jackson, MS. Ms. Mensah holds an M.A. from the Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies of The Johns Hopkins University and a B.A. from Harvard University.
